This seminar will describe the generation and characterization of mutants for identification of modifier genes in the high-lysine Quality Protein Maize variant. David Holding will also describe mutagenesis, mapping and candidate gene pipeline for general functional genomics of seed development and mineral homeostasis in maize. Finally, he will describe a gene editing approach for improving sorghum digestibility.