

TRANSLATING RESEARCH INTO IMPACT: THOUGHTS ON WEED SCIENCE EXTENSION

February 24
3:30 pm

Presented by

CHRIS PROCTOR

Assistant Extension Educator, Weed Management, UNL Agronomy and Horticulture

The importance of research data to inform extension outreach is widely recognized. Nevertheless, one of the challenges facing extension professionals is effectively translating research data into impactful information. While this challenge is not new, this seminar will consider how we might continue to make progress on enhancing the impact of extension related research outcomes.
