This seminar will give an overview of a number of high throughput plant phenotyping projects at UNL. Yufeng Ge will highlight some key findings and lessons from these projects, and share perspectives on the bright future of plant phenotyping research.